

Orgamites - A School Education Tool in Organ and Tissue Donation for South Africa - From Creation (All Good Company) to Implementation (Canadian Blood Services)

Who are the ORGAMITES??

The Orgamites are a team of life-saving organs found within each of us. Known as the "mighty organs," they represent the organs most needed for donation and transplantation.

Speakers:

- Roydon Turner: Creator of the Orgamites, sharing the journey from inception to global implementation.
- Peggy John: Associate Director, Canadian Blood Services, Organ and Tissue Donation and Transplantation will tell us how this educational tool has been used to shift attitudes and practices in Canada.

MEET THE ORGAMITES (YOUR MIGHTY ORGANS)

SIGN UP

And learn how the Orgamites Education Toolkits are used and are transforming the way children, families, and educators talk about organ donation and health.

Through an ever-growing range of fun, educational resources (geared toward children from ages 5 to 11) the Orgamites are on a mission to inspire and equip more students, teachers and families everywhere to talk more about organ donation and to take better care of their health, each other, and our world.
